The idea that church attendance is not very important would have seemed strange to the first century Christians. From the beginning of the church, they met together to worship God. Luke described the early church in Acts 2, saying that they continued devoted in the apostles' doctrine and fellowship, and in breaking of bread, and in prayers... (Acts 2:42, 46-47). Paul wrote, "So what does this mean, brothers and sisters? When you gather... (1 Corinthians 14:26). Obviously, they loved to and expected to come together.

Some argue, that just going to church does not make one a Christian, and going to church does not have that much to do with the kind of person one really is. There is no doubt that simply going to church does not make one a Christian, and it is also true that the kind of person one really is, is very important. But these arguments are really irrelevant, because God has commanded that they who would be pleasing to Him must meet together to worship Him. Jesus said, "God is a spirit. Those who worship him must worship in spirit and truth." (John 4:24). There is a must about worship to Almighty God. If one does not do what God has commanded, he sins. Jesus also said, "If ye love me, keep my commandments" (John 14:15). Failure to worship with the church shows a lack of love for the Lord.

The Hebrew writer said, "We must also consider how to encourage each other to show love and to do good things. We should not stop gathering together with other believers..." (Hebrews 10:24-25). How can a Christian provoke unto love and to good works, or be provoked unto love and to good works, when forsaking the assembling of God's people?

Every member of the body is needed for the worship services. "For example, the body is one unit and yet has many parts. As all the parts form one body, so it is with Christ. By one Spirit we were all baptized into one body. Whether we are Jewish or Greek, slave or free, God gave all of us one Spirit to drink. As you know, the human body is not made up of only one part, but of many parts." (1 Corinthians 12:12-14). The absentee misses the opportunity to join with other Christians in singing praises to God, offering corporate prayer to God, and in giving to God as he has been prospered. He misses the opportunity to learn from and profit from exhortations from God's word. Can anyone really say that he is better off by not participating in the worship of the church? The willful absentee sins against the God of heaven, denies himself the blessings of God, and hurts the church, the bride of Christ.

Is church attendance really that important?
